El Paso, Tex., Aug. 15, '10

We regret to advise the destruction by fire Sunday morning of the building used by us as temporary quarters during the construction of our new building. Our vaults are intact and stood the fire in good shape but on account of dangerous standing walls and debris which must be removed, it will be two or three days before we can gain an entrance. Our stock of stationery, furniture and fixtures was completely lost. Having secured the furniture formerly used by the National Bank of Commerce we were enabled to open for business as usual in the Fewel building on El Paso Street, and ask our friends and customers to indulge us for any little delays in handling their business until we can gain access to our records and secure new stationery. Work on our new seven story fire proof banking room is going rapidly forward and we hope to occupy it in a very short while.

Very truly yours,

JOHN M. WYATT, Cashier.

MEXICAN OFFICIALS HONOR MEMORY OF MAYOR ROBINSON; COUNCIL MEETS

El Paso Foundry Protests Against Erection of Texas Company Oil Tanks.

A tribute from a neighbor city and a friendly nation was paid to the memory of W. F. Robinson, when the politico Francisco Portillo, mayor of Juarez, J. Flores, treasurer of the city across the river, and E. Provencio and G. Alvarez, both members of the Juarez council, called in a body at the city council of El Paso during their session Thursday morning.

The four representatives of the city of Juarez and the Mexican government, made a special trip from Juarez to the council room. They were welcomed by acting mayor Hewitt. Senor Portillo then delivered an address, in Spanish, in which he expressed, on behalf of Sr. Creel, minister of foreign affairs for Mexico, acting governor Sanchez of Chihuahua and himself as mayor of Juarez, sincere regret at the loss of the city of El Paso had sustained in the loss of her mayor; and the deep sympathy of those he represented.

Alderman Blumenthal interpreted the address for the council, and acting mayor Hewitt immediately made a most appropriate reply, in which he thanked the visitors for the courtesy and sympathy shown in their visit, and assured them that the late mayor had been a deep friend of the Mexican people. He concluded by assuring the mayor of Juarez and his friends of the deep appreciation the council, and through them the people, felt at the sympathy shown.

Texas Company a Defendant.
J. U. Sweeney, on behalf of the Texas company, appeared before the council, to argue against the granting of the petition of the El Paso Foundry & Machine company, asking that the Texas company be not allowed to erect oil tanks, with an estimated capacity of 1,000,000 gallons, near the plant of the foundry. An ordinance, passed by a previous council and granting the Texas company permission to erect tanks, pipe lines, etc., was read by Mr. Sweeney. It was also stated that the Texas company had at that time acquired the property in question at a price of a good many thousands of dollars, that it is removed from the business section of the city (Bassett's addition) and that it had called the council's attention to its purpose in acquiring this property and had been granted permission to carry out that purpose; further, that the foundry had later acquired property there, well knowing that the Texas company contemplated using the land for the erection of oil tanks.

The council took the matter under

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

HOW HAPPY THE WORD 'CUTICURA' SOUNDS TO ME

For It Cured My Baby of Itching, Torturing Eczema. First Came when Between 3 and 4 Weeks Old. Used Everything Imaginable. 2 Cakes Soap and One Box Ointment Cured.

"I can't tell in words how happy the word 'Cuticura' sounds to me, for it cured my baby of itching, torturing eczema. It first came when she was between three and four weeks old, appearing on her head. I used everything imaginable and had one doctor's bill after another but nothing cured it. Then the eczema broke out so badly behind her ear that I really thought she would come off. For months I doctored it but to no avail. Then I heard of Cuticura and I was amazed to see her without a sore. From the time she was four weeks old until she was three years, she was never without the terrible eruption but now, thanks to Cuticura, I have a well child. Mrs. H. E. Householder, 1004 Wilhelms St., Baltimore, Md., May 10, 1910."

Jos. B. Swinney Wants Conveyance Made by Mrs. Swinney Set Aside.

Jos. B. Swinney has filed suit in the 41st district court against Mrs. Allie D. Clardy Swinney, and J. H. Smith asking the court to set aside a conveyance in trust alleged to have been made by Mrs. Swinney to J. H. Smith. Swinney alleged that he was induced by Mrs. Swinney, through false representation, to give her power of attorney, which she used to convey to J. H. Smith certain properties for him to control, sell or exchange for her benefit.

The suit is of more than ordinary interest because of the marriage of Mrs. Clardy, reputed to be worth a quarter of a million dollars, to Jos. B. Swinney, who resigned his position as advertising manager for a local dry goods store the day before the marriage. After a wedding trip to California, lasting two weeks, they returned to El Paso, Mr. Swinney leaving shortly afterward for New York, where he is said to be at the present time.

Whew, Now I Hate Heat!

Say, Mr. and Mrs. Fat

Is it any wonder that the fat people hate hot weather? If your heart and lungs and stomach were bound around with layer after layer of false flesh that gave out a terrible unnatural heat and that interfered with their normal functions you would understand the aversion of fat people to hot weather. There is absolutely no reason for fat people staying fat in this age of triumph. We do not advise drugging yourself, dieting, or exercising yourself to death, but there is a method that has been proven successful. It is the famous Marmola tablets which do the work of removing fat exactly like nature intends it should be done. They stop the digestive organs from producing fat. They seek out the fat as it lies around the body and remove it at the rate of from 12 to 15 ounces a day. These little tablets are made from the great Marmola prescription and compressed into hard tablets by tremendous power. You may carry one in your pocket and always eat a meal in peace of mind, for you know that the tablet will get you the best results from such a meal. These tablets contain nothing but Marmola, Cascara Aromatic and Peppermint Water, but they do their work so pleasantly, harmlessly and so fast that you will be surprised. They are sold by every druggist, price 75 cts. per case, or if you prefer you may write The Marmola company, 737 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

REPUBLICAN MIXUP IN SAN ANTONIO

Two Conventions Are Called by the Factions to Settle Dispute.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 18.—A mixup in this senatorial district over who is the Republican senatorial chairman, may bring into question the legality of the nomination of Julius Real, state senator, for reelection.

Julius Oppenheimer, claiming to be senatorial chairman, has called a convention to meet at Boerne, August 27. H. C. Richter, of Fredericksburg, also claiming to be senatorial chairman, has called the convention at Comfort for the same date.

Unless the two chairmen settle the difference between them before the time for the convention, it may result in senator Real having difficulty in getting on the official ballot.

While the Republicans will hold a congressional convention at Boerne on August 27, it is not the intention to put out a candidate this year in opposition to congressman James L. Sladden.

RAILROAD NEWS.

RAILROADS MAY TEST THE SHORT HAUL LAW

Interstate Regulation, Has Gone Into Effect and Common Carriers Have Objected To It.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 18.—At midnight Wednesday night the federal law amending the terms of the long and short haul went into effect. It is now unlawful for railroads to publish and apply rates which are higher for a shorter distance than for a longer distance, the shorter being included in the longer. This of course only affects interstate commerce but the shippers believe that it will prevent a great amount of discrimination between the various cities of the country.

Under the law, six months is allowed within which the carriers must either change their rates or secure from the interstate commerce commission its approval of them.

The new amendment is not pleasing to the railroads and it is possible that some legal steps may be taken to test its constitutionality.

Previous to the passage of this law it was claimed that by means of the long and short haul the railroads had been able to practically kill one city while another one could be built up. The law is designed primarily to prevent this.

Texas as between Texas cities there has been such a rule in force some time by the railroad commission.

Since the purchase of the M. & T. R. R. and acquiring an interest in the Frisco system, he has become a very important factor in the railroad world in Texas.

Easy Advertising Fables

By AESOP, JR.

THIS BEING ABOUT

The Merchant Who Owned the Newspaper Because He Advertised

A CERTAIN merchant had for years judiciously used newspaper space and, as a consequence, his business was prosperous. He paid his advertising bills promptly and his business relations with the paper were most cordial. Now, it came to pass that one day this merchant unintentionally created an item of news. It was an item that would not look well in print. Straightway, he went to the business office of his favorite newspaper and demanded that this news item in which he figured be suppressed. He was kindly informed that a newspaper's first duty to its subscribers was to publish the news. Thereupon, he became exceedingly wrath and cited the fact that he, through his advertisements, had made it possible for the newspaper to succeed. Despite his argument, the item of news appeared. The newspaper is still in existence, although it no longer carries the advertising of this merchant.

Moral: This fable teaches that even since ancient times cutting off one's nose to spite one's face does not show business acumen.

EDWARDS ALLEGES HARPER INELIGIBLE

case pending before him, for the following reasons:

Coldwell's Argument.
That the selection of a name to be placed on a ballot was not in itself an election, and that while the court had jurisdiction in real elections, there was none in a primary election; that a primary election was not an election in fact for the reason that it created no office, created no officer, and did not change a county seat, or provide for the issuance of bonds, but that it was merely a convenient arrangement to ascertain for a political party what name should be placed on the ballot was argued by attorney Coldwell.

That it had been the custom of the courts to keep away from political questions, and that it was not the intention of the lawmakers of Texas to give district judges jurisdiction in primary elections, any more than in a church election, or elections of any similarly organized body, was also stated; and that there was no semblance of justice in allowing a judge, sitting in vacation, without a jury, without the right of appeal, to pass on a question where the votes of several thousand people were involved; that notice of contest had not been filed within five days of the announcement of the executive committee, as required by law, and that it was necessary to give the names of those who had voted illegally.

Thurmond's Contentions.
It was in reply to these arguments that attorney Thurmond, for Hall, occupied all of Thursday morning. Among the points alleged, are: That the law provided that the county executive committee and the district court had concurrent jurisdiction in cases of contest, and that they had the option of trying the case before either one. That a primary election was an election in which the law contemplated the courts to have jurisdiction, because while it did not create an officer, it created the right to hold that office, which is in itself a valuable thing. That the very decisions which his opponents had cited as showing the district court had no jurisdiction, did in fact show the contrary. That his client had fully complied with the law in filing notice of contest, and that it was asserted that the voters named in the notice of contest had all voted illegally.

Attorneys for Edwards hope, by showing that the district court has no jurisdiction, to stop the contest at its very beginning.

Thurmond expressed the utmost confidence Thursday, after the morning session had adjourned, that the court would hold that it did have jurisdiction, and that the merits of the case would be entered into.
